

Mitchell Littman, Esq.
Founding Partner
mlittman@littmankrooks.com

Mitchell Littman is a founding partner of Littman Krooks LLP and heads the firm's corporate and securities department. His practice includes public and private offerings, broker-dealer and investment banking matters, secondary market transactions, venture and private equity capital investments, and mergers and acquisitions. Mr.

Littman's clients consist of public and private companies, broker-dealers, investment banking firms and individual entrepreneurs. Throughout his career, he has represented issuers, underwriters and placement agents in hundreds of private and public securities offerings, including reverse mergers, PIPEs, IPOs, SPACs, private placements and mergers and acquisitions. The firm has a significant presence in the private secondary market, representing numerous broker-dealer sponsors and private partnerships in fund formation, private placement of fund interests and purchases of privately owned emerging growth technology companies.

Mr. Littman is an Adjunct Professor of Law at Brooklyn Law School, where he teaches Transactional Skills for Start-Ups as well as seminars on corporate and transactional matters.

Mr. Littman also has a significant practice in hospitality, spirits, branding and sports industries.

Mr. Littman is a frequent speaker and panelist at investment banking and securities law conferences and is frequently quoted in news media and trade publications.